Instructor's Guide Quick Start

The Sonlight Instructor's Guide (IG) is designed to make your educational experience as easy as possible. We have carefully organized the materials to help you and your children get the most out of the subjects covered. If you need help reading your schedule, see "How to use the Schedule Page" just before Week 1 begins. This IG includes an entire 36-week schedule, notes, assignments, readings, and other educational activities. For specific organizational tips, topics and skills addressed, the timeline figure schedule, and other suggestions for the parent/teacher see Section Three. What helpful features can you expect from the IG?

Easy to use

Everything you need is located right after the schedule each week. If a note appears about a concept in a book, it's easy to find it right after the schedule based on the day the relevant reading is scheduled.

4 Colored Maps

Colorful maps, which double as bookmarks, will help you easily find relevant map locations. You will find the coordinates and the location name in your notes.

4-Day and 5-Day Schedule Options

The same schedule pages include both 4-Day and 5-Day options. If you're following the 4-Day schedule, simply skip Day 5 or take a look for some optional activities that appear on Day 5.

Day 1

Bible

At the start of this year, you will read to your children the story of Christ's birth, while your children will read about the creation of the world. Both of these are fitting ways to begin a study of God's story. Right away we meet people whom God called to be part of His story: John the Baptist prepares the way for the Messiah, and Noah builds an ark.

For the next several weeks, your children will memorize a Psalm praising God for His creation and marveling that He invites us to be part of His story.

Parent Reading | Luke 1:1-25

Read together.

Student Reading: Discoverer's Bible | Genesis 1:1-2:3

Have your children read this.

American Indian Prayer Guide | Maya, Day 1 p. 9

See the map for the location of each tribe on page v. of the book.

We divide the Prayers for Native Americans into one tribe, civilization, or cluster of tribes per week. Use these at the beginning of your history time or at meal time or bedtime. Check off each day as you read and pray.

Memorization | Psalm 8

Psalm 8 will be due on Week 6. Read Psalm 8 ten times this week—twice each day. Do you know the meanings of all the words? Do you understand what the passage as a whole is about? Why does the psalmist say God's name is "majestic in all the earth"? What makes it majestic?

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: What are the three famous ships' names? [Aug. 3]
- A: the Niña, Pinta and Santa Maria
- Q: Was everyone excited by this new adventure? [Aug. 3]
- A: most people thought it wouldn't work
- Q: How does Columbus encourage the fearful soldiers? [Sept. 10]
- A: he shames them, promises them riches and fame, declares that the first man to see land will receive a reward or 10,000 maravedis, he records the distances as less than they are, makes strong statements like, "the North Star moved," a falling meteor always portends great blessings

Read-Alouds

Walk the World's Rim | Preface & Chapter 1

Note: This book is based on a true story. Spanish explorers sailed from Cuba to Florida in 1527.

Vocabulary

How to Teach Vocabulary: Have your children read the words in context within the sentences where they are found. Then ask them to explain what they think each word means (based on the context and/or any other information they may have). If your children obviously understand the concept, move on. If not, or if you would like to stress dictionary skills, have your children look the words up in a dictionary.

Misfortune had read his thoughts, Chakoh spat twice over his left shoulder to honor and appease the malicious god. (Chakoh: an Animist or one who worships evil spirit; appease: satisfy; malicious: marked by intent to do harm or evil) [chap. 1]

Note: Use the following words as you discuss today's reading to enhance your children's understanding of the story.

Franciscan: member of the Roman Catholic religious order. [preface]

Cheyenne and Avavares: North American tribes. [chap. 1]

teepee: an American Indian conical tent, usually consisting of a animal skins spread over a frame. [chap. 1] caravel: small 15th and 16th century sailing vessel. [chap. 1]

fiestas: the Spanish word that means party, feast or festival. [chap. 1]

bullfight: a Spanish, Portuguese, and Latin American spectacle in which a bull is ceremonially fought and usually killed in an arena by a matador assisted by picadors and banderilleros. [chap. 1]

"three round moons away": three months. [chap. 1]

To Discuss After You Read

Note: Men-from-the-sun: With their fair skin and the fact that the Spaniards came from the East, Indians believed the white men came from the Sun, a god they worshiped.

- Q: Why did the Spanish come to the New Land? [preface]
 A: to convert the heathen, to explore, and to find wealth
- Q: Why did the Spaniards choose the role of medicine men? [preface]
- A: through blessings and prayers many Indians were healed and this kept Spaniards alive
- Q: What was the downside of the medicine man role? [preface]
- A: they were held captive for seven years
- Q: What is the color of the man's beard that is described as "the color of grass when there'd been no rain for many hot suns"? [chap. 1]
- A: tan, light brown
- Q: What does Esteban dream of doing when he gets back to Mexico? [chap. 1]
- A: he dreams of having so much food that he can waste the excess by throwing it to the dogs—the ultimate luxury
- Q: What does Esteban mean when he says, "we sit here with our stomachs hugging our backbones"? [chap. 1]
- A: through hunger they had wasted away to the point where their stomachs were shrunken
- Q: Why does Chakoh's father believe the tribe must stay where it is and not go off and learn new ways from other tribes? [chap. 1]
- A: the gods gave us this land, here we can be free
- Q: Were the Indian tribes in that part of the world successful at survival? Defend your answer. [chap. 1]
- A: no, half of the people of a tribe would die of starvation each year—they planted no crops, and had no domesticated animals—there was little game animals available—life was hard

- A: mother, father, sister, great-grandmother, and himself [three brothers had died earlier]
- Q: Why was Dionisio called that and why was he nicknamed Tigre?
- A: his baptized name came from the saint day; his skin color resembled the Jaguar, and his personality was spirited, mischievous, curious, and lazy

Language Arts

Spelling

Sequential Spelling

Complete daily spelling exercises. We recommend the Sequential Spelling program. Use the "Spelling" line on your weekly schedule to record what you have done each week.

Handwriting

Choose the handwriting program you prefer, then record on this line what your children have done.

Please go online to www.sonlight.com/ handwritingschedules.html and download and print the appropriate file.

Vocabulary Development

Our vocabulary development program is based on and ties in with the Read-Alouds. You will find all the words for Vocabulary Development in this guide in your daily Read-Aloud notes listed as "Vocabulary."

Use the blank "Vocabulary Development" line on your weekly schedule to record the names of the books from which you're taking your vocabulary words, then simply check off each day of the week.

Optional: Wordly Wise 3000, Book 3 | Lesson 1, Exercise 1

Creative Expression

Our goal is to have your children writing all week long. We realize, though, that there are some days when your children will just not feel like writing. All children will have "dry" days when it seems like getting blood from a stone would be easier than getting one paragraph from them.

So what should you do on those "dry" days? Mercilessly browbeat them into submission? Not if you value your own sanity! Just skip writing that day? Not if you want your children to learn to love and excel at writing ... Instead, we recommend another solution: more dictation.

For your convenience, we provide an additional dictation passage each week. The next time you find yourself with a reluctant writer, just use one of these alternative dictation passages as your writing assignment for the day. And encourage your children to get some extra rest so that they're ready to tackle their regular writing assignment the next day.

General Dictation Instructions

Unlike other levels, which feature dictation passages taken from children's readers, Language Arts D uses Bible verses, famous quotes, and poetry for dictation passages. Because many of the regular and advanced readers read the same books, but at different speeds, we found scheduling a challenge. Rather than struggling to accommodate the many intricacies of these varying schedules, we decided instead to use a variety of winsome sources for dictation. We believe that you and your children will be delighted with this new approach.

Dictation gives students practice in handling the sentence. It directs their attention to structure, grammar, spelling, punctuation, and capitalization. It increases vocabulary and familiarizes the students with words they already know. Dictation also links spoken language with written language. Language Arts D is a transitional program for many children. At the beginning of the program, some children are not quite ready to "take" dictation. If this is the case with your children, just use the dictation passages as copywork. Rather than reading the passage to your children, just let them see it and copy it. For your convenience, we include the dictation passages at the top of the activity sheets plus in the Notes here.

Within a few weeks, most children will be ready to transition to regular dictation. As their parent, you will be the best judge of when your children are ready to move from copywork to full dictation. Feel free to make this transition whenever you feel it is best. When your children are ready for dictation, have them write their work on the space provided on the Activity Sheet.

If you have not already done so, please read Dr. Ruth Beechick's comments about dictation on pages 41–50 of The Three R's. Based upon Dr. Beechick's thoughts, we recommend using the following method of dictation over the course of the year:

Preferred Dictation Method

This dictation method involves two steps. First, on Day 1 your children will look at the dictation passage and note any words, capitalizations, or matters of punctuation that require special attention. Your children should then take no more than five to ten minutes to prepare for the final dictation. Preparation may involve writing out unfamiliar words, practicing spelling them out loud or on paper, trying to remember how a word looks by "seeing" it in their minds, drawing a word in large letters written in mid-air with an imaginary pen, etc.

On Day 5, you should then give the dictation, clause by clause, reading each clause only twice (repeating it only once). Your children should write in the cursive style and, as you read the passage to them, you should not emphasize the different sounds in each word.

Before handing their papers to you, your children should check their work for errors. They should mark and correct any errors they find. Discuss with your children what you think they have done particularly well, as well as what they could do better.

If you see consistent spelling, punctuation, or handwriting problems (keep a record on the weekly schedule), review that area using the list of spelling rules included in the Appendices in Section Three.

Activity Sheets

Find student writing exercises on the weekly Activity Sheets directly after these Notes. If you prefer, feel free to put all the Activity Sheets in a separate binder for your children to use.

A: Dictation Passage¹

Read through the dictation passage with your children. Note any words, capitalizations, or matters of punctuation that require special attention. On Day 5, you will give the dictation as your children write it down on this week's activity sheet.

Joy is found in giving the right answer. And how good is a word spoken at the right time! The path of life leads up for those who are wise.

Optional: Dictation | Regular Readers²

Note: For your convenience, we provide an additional dictation passage each week. If your children are having an "off" day, just use one of these alternative dictation passages as your writing assignment for the day. Feel free to take a break instead of trying to grind your way through the regular assignment.

"He was well enough, for all I could see. He'd built a house in Jamestown. That's the only town there. When my ship sailed, he asked if I'd stop for a word with his family in London."

Optional: Dictation | Advanced Readers³

- A: they have similar roles in their various cultures, but serve very different gods
- Q: Why does Chakoh reason the Señor's God is so powerless to save his servants?
- A: he reasons that the Señor's God truly dwells in the church in Mexico and that his power doesn't travel as far as the Señors had come
- Q: What arguments does Chakoh use to go with the Señors to Mexico?
- A: he wants to see the place of origin for his people, and seeks to learn of a god to help overcome the spirit of misfortune that plagues his village
- ^{Q:} Why did the Señors decide to go north to get to Mexico which was south?
- A: they wanted to avoid the cruel coastal tribes, and food promised to be more plentiful in the north
- Q: What is Esteban's opinion of the Señor's God? Is he correct in this?
- A: he believes that God, Allah, Earth Maker, and Spirit of Good Things were just different names for the same being; no, Chakoh's understanding of a god of misfortune is not the same as the Christian God
- Q: At first Esteban thinks Chakoh should stay with his own people; what changes his mind?

B: Dictation Application

It's a new homeschool year, and we hope that you're excited to be at the helm of your children's education. It's truly a blessing to be able to take such an active role in shaping your children's future (Proverbs 22:6).

Today, we review some basic ideas that we'll build upon in the coming weeks. While we don't think it necessary to study grammar in depth at this level, we do want to focus on concepts that are closely related to writing. In this way, your children will learn the grammar they really need to know at this level in the context of how they can use it (apply it) to become better writers.

Use yesterday's dictation and review with your children the basic rules of sentences:

- 1. Sentences begin with a capital letter; and
- 2. Sentences end with a punctuation mark (either a period, question mark, or exclamation point).

Ask your children what punctuation marks are used in the dictation passage. (period; exclamation point; period) Discuss with them why those particular punctuation marks were used. (The first and last sentences are statements, and the middle sentence conveys strong emotion or excitement.)

Explain to your children that nouns are people, places, and things (including ideas). Take a look around your room. Talk with them about the nouns they see. (Possibilities: door, carpet, television, window, book, Mom, children, curtains, dog, recliner, lamp, etc.) What nouns can your children identify in the first two sentences of the dictation passage? (Joy, answer, word, time)

On their own, nouns are not necessarily all that interesting. Take the noun car, for example. From just the word car, what do you know about the car? Not much. What color is it? Is it brand new or a classic antique or a pile of metal destined for the junk heap? You have no idea.

So how do writers make nouns more interesting? By adding descriptive words—called adjectives—to them. For example:

The car raced around the track.

The shiny new Indy car raced around the cold, wet track.

Which sentence is better? Do your children see how adding shiny, new, Indy, cold, and wet made the second sentence much more interesting?

The, a, and an are special types of adjectives called ar-ticles. However, there's no need to worry about advanced concepts like articles now. Just focus on getting your children to think in descriptive terms.

Explain to your children that good writers use adjectives carefully. Ever heard of too much of a good thing? Well, that phrase definitely applies to the use of adjectives.

How many adjectives are too many? It varies. How will you know when you've used too many adjectives? The sentence just won't sound right. For example:

The shiny new Indy car raced around the cold, wet track.

The shiny, fast, new, blue Indy car raced around the black, cold, wet, slippery, round track.

What do your children think of the second example? Awkward, right? It's too descriptive. The second example sentence crosses the line from descriptive to distracting.

Using the lines on "B: Dictation Application" on Week 1 Activity Sheet, ask your children to rewrite this passage that we adopted from A Lion to Guard Us and add some descriptive adjectives to make it more interesting. Here is an example of what a passage enhanced with additional adjectives might look like:

> On a cold morning in 1609, a heavy man made his way over London Bridge. He wore a cloth jacket and a beaver-skin cap. His homemade clothes were caked with mud, and black mud sucked at his leather shoes. He could hardly see for the driving rain in his face.

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: How does Esteban describe the world?
- A: it is round like a basket, and we are like ants that walk on the rim
- Q: Why does Chakoh despise slaves?
- A: they are men of no honor—rather than dying, they allowed their freedom to be taken—in a tribe where there is little else of worth, freedom must be guarded carefully

Q: How does Esteban believe a slave can receive honor?
A: by obeying his master, for that takes courage as well

Note: In the animist faith, charms and sacrifices help control the spirits. Chakoh constantly seeks "good medicine" to better his life from the god of misfortune.

- Q: How did Cabeza de Vaca decide the group could finally head south?
- A: he thought the rivers were flowing to the Pacific and no longer the Gulf of Mexico—they were sure to be away from the coastal tribes—see map in front of book
- Q: Why were the Buffalo People to be feared?
- A: they tortured their own flesh to gain power over the buffalo, and their moods changed with the wind—they were not to be trusted

C: Five Senses

Most children will struggle with learning to write well, because our everyday spoken language is so forgiving. When we talk with each other, the quick interplay of our speech allows us to work out what we want to say as we say it. The written word, on the other hand, needs to be concise and clear. No one likes to read a confused, rambling essay. We need to do our thinking before we put pen to paper (or fingers to keyboards).

Children need to be taught how to think through their writing assignments. We wouldn't give our children wrenches and tell them to fix leaky faucets, yet too often we feel fine handing them pencils and telling them to write essays.

Today's activity will help you take those first steps together with your children. When writers seek to describe nouns with adjectives, they often think in terms of their five senses. What does it look like? What does it sound like? What does it smell, feel, and taste like? In this way, they are able to bring nouns to life with vivid descriptions.

Talk with your children about the five senses (sight, hearing, smell, feeling, and taste), and then guide them through the Five Senses brainstorming activity on "C: Five Senses" Week 1 Activity Sheet. Help them think of adjectives that are inspired by each of their five senses, and then ask them to write the adjectives they think of on the lines provided. Have them think of different nouns to describe.

Here are some possible answers:

D: See It, Describe It

Your children's assignment today is to write a short paragraph that describes something they can see. It can be an object or an animal or something they see in their imagination.

Remind your children to think in terms of their five senses. What does it look like? Sound like? Smell, feel, and taste like? The more descriptive adjectives your children use, the better their descriptions will be. Feel free to give them as much help as they need.

Don't worry too much about mechanics (proper spelling, punctuation, etc.) right now. There will be plenty of time in the future to work on those things when they learn to edit and revise their drafts.

For now, focus on clearly transferring their thoughts to paper on "D: See It, Describe It" Week 1 Activity Sheet. Did they use good descriptive words? Were they able to apply what they learned this week? Encourage them to be as imaginative and creative as they can be in their descriptions.

Here's what a sample paragraph might look like:

My mother collects elephants made of wood, stone and glass. My favorite one is made out of cut crystal glass that breaks the light into brilliant rainbows when the sun shines through it. It shimmers in the light. It is surprisingly heavy. The cut surface feels rough like an elephant's hide might feel. With its thick trunk up in the air I can almost hear it call! While this shiny animal has no smell, its nose is certainly long enough.

F: 5-Day: Your Mom

Today, we want your children to describe their mom. Instead of writing a simple paragraph, though, we'd like for them to create a piece of art suitable for framing. Feel free to remind them that this assignment can score them big points with their teacher!

Have them write MOTHER down the side of their papers. Tell them to do it as neatly and beautifully as they can. When they're done, they should write an adjective phrase that describes their mom for each letter in MOTHER. Here's an example of what it might look like:

- M—mighty leader
- O—organizer of stuff
- T—tough, but fair
- H—helper of all
- E—eager to serve
- R—ringleader of our family circus!

If your children want to get on Dad's good side, they can repeat this exercise with the word FATHER. Enjoy this special time with your precious children. Isn't homeschooling great?

Bible

It doesn't matter if you are young or old; God wants you to be part of what He is doing in the world. This week you will meet several people who waited for a long, long time to see God do what He said He would do. May we be willing to follow when God calls us, and remember to keep our eyes on Him and not try to "make a name for ourselves."

B: Dictation Application

Last week, you and your children discussed how adding descriptive words can enliven their writing. This week, you're going to explore the similar relationship that exists between verbs and the words that modify them—adverbs.

Verbs express actions or states of being. While nouns are the people, places, and things in a sentence, verbs tell what those people, places, and things do or are. Quickly review verbs with your children by analyzing the third and fourth sentences in yesterday's dictation passage. What verbs can you and your children find together? (Sing, Play, shout)

Just as good writers use adjectives to describe nouns, good writers also make their writing more interesting by adding interesting words—called adverbs—to describe their verbs. Adverbs often end with – ly. For example, consider these two sentences:

- The badger grabbed the sleeping bag and dragged it into the woods.
- The badger cunningly grabbed the sleeping bag and gleefully dragged it into the woods.

Do your children see how the adverbs cunningly and gleefully add meaning and interest to the sentence? The badger in the first sentence could be any old run-of-the-mill badger who accidentally stumbles across an abandoned sleeping bag near the woods.

The badger in the second sentence, however, is obviously up to something. Why did he need to be cunning? Why was he so full of glee? What is he going to do with that sleeping bag? Isn't it amazing how two little adverbs turned a plain sentence into one that makes readers want to know what's going to happen next?

Using the lines on "B: Dictation Application on Week 2 Activity Sheet, ask your children to rewrite this passage adopted from A Lion to Guard Us, adding some descriptive adverbs to make the verbs more interesting. Here is an example of what a passage enhanced with additional adverbs might look like:

She hesitantly took a step after him, but Cook's voice shrilly called her back. "A-man-da." She slowly and carefully closed the door. Then, she dejectedly walked down the long, cold hall and into the kitchen.

The Story of the USA, Book 1 | Chapter 3– Exercise A–E

As you are working through the The Story of the USA workbooks, please keep in mind a few things. These are workbooks and as such, we do not consider them a spine or main text of this curriculum. Use them to develop comprehension skills and to help your children interact with blocks of text. Also, we do schedule all of the workbooks, but feel free to look over the material before hand a decide which sections to assign your children.

A customer on the Sonlight[®] Forums, "Just Little Ol' Me," gives some helpful comments about how to use these workbooks.

Many, if not most, homeschoolers face standardized tests at least every few years, and I've never met anybody who loves those Reading Comprehension sections! This series of workbooks can help your student really improve on that part of the test, if you approach them with that goal.

Instead of concentrating on the information in the lesson, focus on improving their responses to the questions at the end of the passages. Have them mark up the book, finding the answers to each question and writing the number of the question in the margin next to the answer. Hand out colored pencils and let them highlight the sentence or phrase where the answer is found. If they can't find one (because it is not explicitly stated), YOU can circle the appropriate paragraph and then help them see how to come up with the correct answer.

Finally, the material in "Intro to American History, Year 2 of 2" volumes of SotUSA [Volumes 3 & 4] starts to justify some notes, whereas in "Intro to American History, Year 1 of 2" [Volumes 1 & 2] you mostly had the answers in the IG. Don't forget to refer to them, and it is OK (more than OK) to skip a chapter (or several) for use later on when the topics are better suited to your child's age and maturity. I saved the chapter on women's rights and reproduction innovations for the week in "Health, Medicine, and Human Anatomy" Science when those body parts are covered. I just didn't see the need to take the time in "history" to dwell on that, but it really fits in nicely in the "science" program about six months later.

D: I Couldn't Believe My Eyes!

Last week, your children wrote a description of something they could see. This week, their task is to write an exciting story about what they described. Beginning with the words "I couldn't believe my eyes!", your children should spin a short yarn about the amazing things their item did. Feel free to use your imagination.

Did it attack the city at dawn? Maybe it dared to use the express lane at the grocery store—with more than 10 items! Or perhaps it came off the bench to hit a home run and win your little league championship game ... The possibilities here are endless. Encourage your children to be wildly creative.

On this assignment, ask your children to focus on telling a story. A good story has a clear beginning, middle, and end. As your children think of ideas, ask them to consider the order in which events likely occurred. Then, when they begin to write, make sure that they tell their story in a logical order.

Also, ask your children to incorporate what they learned about adverbs this week into their assignment. When they're done with their first draft of their story, discuss their choice of verbs with them. Are they interesting? Or could some of them use a little spice? If so, have them go back and add some interesting adverbs to their story.

Like last week, focus more on your children's creativity and ideas than their spelling and mechanics. Early on in any language arts course, it can be difficult for children to get "into the groove" of writing. Feel free to point out any errors that you see, but get excited and praise them for their wonderful imaginations. A little positive reinforcement now will do wonders for their confidence.

Have your children record their work on "D: I Couldn't Believe My Eyes!" on Week 2 Activity Sheet.

Here's what a sample story might look like:

Last night I caught my mother's crystal elephant by the kitchen sink. Puzzled, I got my glass of water and started back to bed. As soon as I left the kitchen, I crept back to see if I could uncover the mystery. To my surprise, the glass elephant was alive and using the facet to wash off. I had wondered how it managed to sparkel so brightly!

5-Day: The Light and the Glory | Chapter 2

To Discuss After You Read

Sometimes words—even brutal words—can hide the truth.

Today, on page 28 of The Light and the Glory, we read that "Columbus ... made the Indians pay a tax in gold. If they could not pay, the Spanish punished them and treated them like slaves."

Beverly Slapin and Doris Seale fill in some enlightening details:

People over 14 years of age were forced to pay enough gold to fill a hawk's bell measure every three months—or be killed by having their hands cut off. In despair, with no gold left, the people fled their homes for the mountains, leaving their crops unplanted, preferring to starve to death. Most of those trying to get to the mountains were hunted down with dogs and killed, as an example to the others. One by one, all of the indigenous leaders were tortured, impaled, hanged, burned at the stake. Then the mass suicides began, as Arawak people killed themselves with casava poison.⁴

Truly, as Marshall and Manuel conclude, "It was a massacre."

- Q: Although we celebrate Columbus as an explorer and discoverer, why do we consider him a poor governor? [chap. 2]
- A: he was proud and demanding, he spoke harshly and angered easily, people did not respect him and he refused to take responsibility
- Q: What do you think are characteristics of a good leader? [chap. 2]
- A: while able to set direction, to do so humbly and kindly, always willing to take responsibility for a leader is ultimately in charge, to encourage workers, pay them fairly, to not let money become your god

F: 5-Day: Goofy Sentences

Play the following game to play with your children to reinforce what they learned this week about using adverbs to make their verbs more interesting. You'll need two players to work together to make goofy sentences with adverbs, according to the following rules:

Player 1:	states an article (a/an/the)
Player 2:	provides a noun
Player 1:	adds a verb
Player 2:	adds an adverb that describes the verb
Player 1:	completes the sentence

Player 1:	"A
Player 2:	" goat"
Player 1:	" danced"
Player 2:	" wildly"
Player 1:	" on top of the barn roof."

Take turns starting the sentences, and see how creative, fun, and crazy the sentences can become. Be careful, though, as giggling, snickering, hooting, and other forms of wild laughter may be contagious and quite uncontrollable. Don't say we didn't warn you! ■

Whether it's healing people or teaching, Jesus didn't do it alone. He invited people to follow Him and learn from Him. The ones He spent the most time teaching were called disciples. Your children will read an account of God destroying a wicked city, but also providing in love. God looks out for the outcasts, provides for us when we follow His directions, and can even lead us to the people we need to meet.

Regular: Pocahontas and the Strangers | Chapter 1

Before your children begin reading this book, you may want to point out that it—as, really, every book about Pocahontas—is a work of fiction. Very little is known about Pocahontas. Very little.

A few things we do know.

The name of the man referred to as Powhatan in Poca-hontas and the Strangers (and almost every book ever written about Pocahontas) was really not Powhatan. Powhatan was the name of a Pamunkey (Indian) village. The name of the man referred to as Powhatan was Wahunsonacock. Wahunsonacock was the Pamunkey tribal chief. He and his family lived in Powhatan. A master of diplomacy, he had negotiated a treaty among 30 Indian tribes so that they had formed what was known as the Algonquian Confederacy. Wahunsonacock was the head of the Confederacy.

Pocahontas, it seems, had inherited many of her father's traits. She was a daughter in whom Wahunsonacock confided and placed special trust.

The story about John Smith being "saved" by Pocahontas may or may not be accurate. Historians generally take one of these three positions on the story:¹

Fiction: Smith's first account of being saved or rescued was told 17 years after it was to have happened, in 1624. He had written several times before, about his expedition and meeting of Wahunsonacock, but described being comfortable and treated in a friendly fashion. It has been said that some of his fellow colonist describe him as, "an abrasive, ambitious, self-promoting mercenary soldier."²

True Story: Smith claimed to have written about the event in 1616 in a letter to Queen Anne, wife of King James I; however, this letter has never been found.

Misunderstood Ceremony: Beth Brant suggests that, rather than salvation by an enraptured Pocahontas, "John Smith's so-called rescue was ... a mock execution—a traditional ritual often held after capture of enemies...."³

Pocahontas, of course, played a part in the ritual. She chose to adopt Smith as her brother. Based on subsequent events, it appears that Pocahontas and her father hoped that Pocahontas' adoption of Smith would cement a treaty between the Algonquian Confederacy and the British, a treaty that would enhance the fortunes of all the Indian tribes.

Brant suggests that when John Smith left the Jamestown Colony and returned to England, Pocahontas and her father were greatly angered. Why? "By adopting Smith, ... Pocahontas was, in effect, opening her home and family to him. Smith violated this most basic precept of Indian values by leaving Jamestown without even a good-bye or thank you. To be impolite to an Indian is humiliation to the whole family, clan, and Nation."⁴

After Smith left, we find that "Pocahontas was sent on varying missions to other Nations by her father. Serving as a spokeswoman for the Algonquian Confederacy, she arranged new trade agreements, cemented old friend-ships, built new ones. Of this there can be no doubt— Pocahontas was a skilled orator and a politician."⁵ Later, when she and her father were taken prisoner by the residents of Jamestown, we find Pocahontas again seem-ingly enamored of white ways. Brant explains her behavior from an Indian perspective: "Bargaining with the British, Pocahontas arranged for her father to be sent home and she would stay to learn more about the [C]hristian way. The accounts given at the time show Pocahontas to be an eager convert. I submit that her conversion to [C]hristianity was only half-hearted, but her conversion to literacy was carried out with powerful zeal." Indeed, "Pocahontas had her own manifest destiny to fulfill. That of keeping her people alive."⁶

Brant makes two additional comments that should cause us pause as we interpret Pocahontas' life. "The legend of Pocahontas makes us believe that after marrying Rolfe, she quickly became a lady of leisure, even acquiring the title of Lady Rebecca. I find this choice of names especially intriguing. Did she choose it for herself? In her quest for literacy, the Bible was the only tool she had at that time. Did she read the story of another ... Rebecca when she was told, 'Be thou the mother of thousands of millions, and let thy seed possess the gate of those which hate them'?" [Genesis 24:60]⁷

Pocahontas Rebecca had a son, a boy who combined the blood of the British and the Pamunkey, a son who, in Pocahontas Rebecca's eyes, might have been a symbol of hope for future generations of peace between the two peoples. On her dying bed, her last reported words were, "It is enough the child liveth."

Alas, it was not enough that Thomas Rolfe survived. As Brant concludes, "The Pamunkey people and ... other southeastern Nations were on the path to extinction."⁸

Setting

New England to England; early 1600s

Overview

Pocahontas, daughter of a Native American king, lives in the early 1600s. When the English land near her home, her father distrusts them, but Pocahontas wants to help. She saves the life of Captain John Smith twice, and brings food to the starving settlement at Jamestown. After rumors of wars and much distrust, the English capture Pocahontas, who goes to live in Jamestown. She learns to act like an Englishwoman and marries an Englishman, John Rolfe, a tobacco-grower. Together with their son they leave for England, where Pocahontas dies.

B: Dictation Application

Last week, you and your children discussed how to improve their writing by using adverbs to describe verbs in greater detail. But guess what? That's not all the amazing adverb can do!

Adverbs can also modify or describe adjectives or other adverbs. For example:

- The extremely proud badger displayed his loot for all his woodland friends to see.
- Two curious squirrels examined the strange object very carefully.

In the first sentence, the adverb extremely describes the adjective proud. In the second sentence, the adverb very describes the adverb carefully. Discuss with your children how these words make the sentences more interesting by further describing the adjectives and adverbs they modify.

One note of caution: Like adjectives, adverbs that modify adjectives or other adverbs should be used sparingly. These words can lose their impact if used too often or stressed too greatly.

Using the lines on "B: Dictation Application" on LA Week 3 Activity Sheet, ask your children to rewrite the example sentences above with different adverbs. Your children should feel free to be as crazy as they want to be. Changing the meaning of the sentences is fine, as long as they use adverbs appropriately. Here are some examples of how these sentences might be changed:

- The very proud badger displayed his loot for all his woodland friends to see.
- Two curious squirrels examined the really strange object quite recklessly.

- Q: How did Native Americans get their names?
- A: males would have different names for different stages of life, names that fit their physical features or their deeds; women would often just have one name; they had no family names; when the government tried to record the Native Americans, they gave family names to them all

C: Simile Showdown

During the last two weeks, your children have been adding descriptive words to nouns and verbs to make their writing more interesting. Rather than merely using single descriptive words, however, good writers will also use similes—short phrases that compare two or more things that are otherwise not similar—to enrich their writing. Similes will usually contain the words like or as. Here are a few examples of similes:

- slippery as an eel
- fast like lightning
- black as night
- gentle like a lamb

Similes help readers form mental pictures in their minds. Writers use them in place of adjectives and adverbs to make their descriptions even more interesting. Guide your children through "C: Simile Showdown" on LA Week 3 Activity Sheet. Challenge them to think of creative similes to replace the descriptive words we have listed. Here are some possible answers:

FAST: quick like a bunny BEAUTIFUL: pretty as a picture SKINNY: thin like a rail INTELLIGENT: smart as a whip UNFRIENDLY: mean as a snake

- Q: Why are the Indians angry? [chap. 13]
- A: because of the slave traders who steal Indians
- Q: Why is Mexico a sad place for Chakoh? [chap. 13]
- A: there are many people but not one of them is a friend; he worries about the soul of Esteban—who will mourn him and light a funeral pyre and chant the death song?
- Q: Why does Chakoh decide to leave Mexico? [chap. 13]
- A: there is nothing for him to do there—in his village he can be headman hunter and a warrior, and if he brings seeds, there will be no hunger either

D: Describe It ... Revisited

So far, your children have described and told an exciting story about something they could see. This week, we want them to revisit their previous assignments, combining them into one cohesive story full of descriptive detail. While they're at it, we'd like for them to apply what they learned yesterday about similes and convert a few of their descriptive details into imaginative similes.

Your children may think this sounds like an easy assignment, since they get to use a lot of their work from the past two weeks. They might be surprised, though, to discover what a challenge it can be to edit and combine their previous work in a way that flows well as a new story. The key will be to remind them to go slowly.

They should continue to tell the story in a logical order. Along the way, they should add in descriptive details so that readers will be able to see a vivid image of their item in their minds. On top of all that, they'll also need to work in a creative simile or two.

Give them all the help they need to think of similes that will make their descriptions informative and fun to read. What is their item like? It's as tall as what? It's as green as what? It feels slimy like what? Encourage them to build upon their previous descriptions, bringing their item to life in new and inventive ways.

Let your children know that you have confidence in their abilities and that you can't wait to read their new and improved story. After they've finished a rough draft, feel free to work with them on basic mechanics, such as capitalization, punctuation, spelling, etc.

Have your children record their work on "D: Describe It... Revisited" on LA Week 3 Activity Sheet.

Here's what a sample revised story might look like:

Last night, as I wandered into the kitchen for a glass of cool water, I caught my mother's crystal elephant by the sink. Puzzled, I collected my glass of water and started back to bed. As soon as I left the kitchen, I crept back as quietly as a mouse and carefully looked in. I was determined to uncover the mystery. To my enormous surprise, the glass elephant was alive! It used its trunk to pull water from the faucet to wash. No wonder it glistened as brightly as a rainbow!

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: Why did people first come to America?
- A: they followed animals from the North that they needed for food
- Q: Why are the first settlers called Indians?
- A: when Columbus landed, he thought he was in India—so he called the people Indians
- Q: What did the people in the Northwest primarily eat?
- A: salmon and whale
- Q: How did they decorate their homes?
- A: with wood carvings
- Q: What function did totem poles have?
- A: they record family stories and backgrounds
- Q: How did the peaceful Hopi protect themselves?
- A: instead of doors, they had holes in their roofs with ladders that they could pull inside; they also lived high on the mesas to be harder to reach

- A: hoes, axes, beads for deer, and turkey
- Q: Why wouldn't the palefaces trade a gun?
- A: guns kept the palefaces safe
- Q: Why would Powhatan kill his captive Captain John Smith?
- A: without a leader it is easier to drive away the others

Advanced: Vostaas: White Buffalo's Story of Plains Indian Life | pp. 33–39 (middle of p. 39)

To Discuss After You Read

- Q: What were the first mobile homes?
- A: tipis, made of poles and buffalo skins
- Q: After moving to the reservation, what houses did the Native Americans use?
- A: canvas tipis were too cold; tents worked for a while, but soon became filthy from the trampled dirt outside; some built tiny houses, but these allowed disease to spread quickly; now new homes, both prefabricated and larger log homes, stand on the reservations, complete with pipes, but not with gas or oil stoves

E: Dictation¹²

Read through the dictation passage, and have your children record the passage on "E: Dictation" on LA Week 3 Activity Sheet. Note any words, capitalizations, or matters of punctuation that require special attention.

> Blessed are those who are free of pride. They will be given the earth. Blessed are those who are hungry and thirsty for what is right. They will be filled.

F: 5-Day: I Spy

Today, while you're hanging out around the house or driving in the car with your children, play a game of "I Spy." To start, pick someone to be the "spy."

The "spy" should look around and pick out something (a noun). With the thing in mind, the "spy" should then give the other players clues about the thing. The clues should be descriptive hints (adjectives or adverbs). Is it tall? Red? Square? Is it moving quickly? Standing still? Swaying gently?

The other players then have to guess what thing the "spy" spied based upon the list of clues given by the "spy." The "spy" should give just one clue at a time, allowing time for the other players to guess what is being described. The first player to guess the mystery thing gets to be the next "spy."

12. Matthew 5:5–6 (NIrV[®]).

Remind your children that the clues they give should be words that describe the thing or something the thing is doing. In this way, you can reinforce the habit of thinking in descriptive terms—a habit that will lead to better writing in the future. If your children need an example to get them started, pretend you see a dog. Give them hints, such as brown, spotted, small, jumping happily, and barking loudly, until they guess correctly that you spied a dog.
